

Felixstowe Town Council gave an occasional grant which was to go towards Felixstowe Book Festival's Book writer event "How to be Autistic"

With the onset of Covid-19 the Festival has now decided to go online and will be free for all to enjoy! Across the weekend we will be hosting a series of live-streamed author Q&As and interview, plus talks and videos and more on our Facebook page.

All live events across the weekend will be streamed on our Facebook page. The most interactive way to experience the event is to log in to Facebook and visit <https://www.facebook.com/FelixstoweBookFest>

Alternatively, tune in to the Online page on our website on the 27th and 28th June where our live-stream videos will be playing.

Here is a guide to how to enjoy our Live-Stream videos over the course of the festival weekend: <https://felixstowebookfestival.co.uk/how-to-view-our-fbf-live-stream-videos>

If you would like to help us out this year with a donation, take a look at our Fundraising page here: <https://felixstowebookfestival.co.uk/fundraising>

The programme of events can be found at <https://felixstowebookfestival.co.uk/events>

Felixstowe Book Festival would like to convey our gratitude to Felixstowe Town Council for the continued funding in this difficult time.
